Justice Department questions Hancock County reregistration

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The U.S. Department of Justice has requested further information from local officials before approving reregistration of voters in Hancock County.

A letter from the Civil Rights Division of the department, dated Dec. 12 and addressed to Board of Supervisors Attorney Walter J. Gex III, advises the department has determined that the information sent is insufficient to enable the Attorney General to determine that the proposed change does not have the purpose and will not have the effect of denying or abridging the right to vote on account of race or color.

Hancock officials must now submit additional information for federal officials to evaluate, including:

- Total number of registered voters, by race, in the county;
- Methodology for implementing the reregistration;
- Ways voters will be informed of the reregistration procedures;
- Specific provisions, if any, for reregistering illiterate voters;
- Information related to the purging of registration and poll books;
- Information related to active and inactive voter rolls;
- Methods to be used to vote if voters

do not reregister:

- Duration of the reregistration period;
- Locations and times of reregistration;
- Copies of transcripts pertaining to meetings in which county officials discussed reregistration;
- Description of existing methods for keeping registration and poll books current;
- Extent of minority input and participation in planning and implementation of reregistration; and
- Effect of not reregistering for county elections on status of voters' city registration.

The Board of Supervisors turned the letter over to the Circuit Clerk's office and the Election Commission for response.

Gex said he did not anticipate further problems because the Concerned Citizens Organization and the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Persons, both primarily black organizations, have written letters endorsing the reregistration.

The US Attorney General will have 60 days to review the submission after the additional information is received in Washington, D.C.

Supervisors okay bid for FAA weather station

A successful bid for a weather station at Stennis Airport could result in 40 new jobs that would generate $2 million a year in revenue for Hancock County, Port and Harbor Commission Director James C. DeBlanc said Thursday.

The Board of Supervisors gave the go-ahead to the commission to make a bid for an automated flight service station facility and to expend $9,800 for the project.

The Federal Aeronautics Administration has requested proposals from throughout the state for such a facility, DeBlanc said.

At present, the only automated flight service station facility in Mississippi is located inland, in Jackson.

Facilities are also located in New Orleans and Mobile.

The bid is for an 8,000 square foot facility with "quite detailed specifications" and a "ballpark" estimated cost of $80 per square foot, DeBlanc said.

FFA is asking for plans by Jan. 15, 1984, he said.

Choice of sites will not be made until Dec. 31, and the facility will not begin operations until January, 1989.

Although FFA desires a 20-year term for the facility, the federal agency can only provide a lease on a year-by-year basis.

It is hoped, DeBlanc said, that the facility could be amortized over a ten-year period; after that time, all revenues would go to the county.

The supervisors authorized the expenditure of $4,500 for preliminary plans and $5,100 for proposal preparation.

If Hancock County is a successful bidder, the $4,500 would be applied to engineering fees for the project, according to DeBlanc.

"It looks like three airports in the state will be bidding on this project, he said.

Chamber dubs Breland Outstanding Citizen

William Eugene (Bill) Breland is the 1983 Outstanding Citizen in Hancock County, named at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce annual banquet

OUTSTANDING CITIZEN—William Breland, right, is congratulated by Dick Thomas for being selected as the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's 1983 Outstanding Citizen. Breland, a resident of Bay St. Louis is a vice president and branch manager of the Coleman Avenue and Waveland West branches of Merchants Bank. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Friday night.

Breland, who serves as vice president and branch manager of the Coleman Avenue and Waveland West branches of Merchants Bank, was presented the award by Dick Thomas, Chamber board member.

Breland attended the Hancock County Schools in elementary grades and graduated from Bay St. Louis High School where he lettered in basketball and football. He then attended Pearl River Junior College and the University of Southern Mississippi.

Breland has been president of the Bay St. Louis Jaycees and held every office. He received the Outstanding Jaycee Award, was named one of the Outstanding Young Men in America, and in 1970, was honored by the Mississippi Jaycees as the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award, the highest honor bestowed by the state organization.

He also served with the Bay-Waveland-Hancock County Civil Defense, and was honored by the Mississippi Jaycees for rescue operations during Hurricane Betsy.

Breland served on the Bay St. Louis City School board for 10 years, as a member of the Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds Commission and the Bay St. Louis Little League.

For six years, he coached and managed the Babe Ruth American Legion baseball team for 13 to 15 year old boys.

He also managed the 13 year-old all stars who won the state title and represented Mississippi in the Southeast Regional Tournament in Shelbyville, Tenn.

Breland has been president of the Tiger Booster Club, the athletic booster club of the Bay St. Louis City Schools, and is still an active member.

He has served on the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, is a past member of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club and the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

Breland, son of Mrs. Beatrice Dickerson Breland and the late E.E. Breland, former Hancock County superintendent of education, is a member of the Hancock County Gun and Rod Club and the First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis.

He joined the staff of Merchants Bank in 1957, and has worked at the Bay St. Louis and Waveland branches.

He is married to the former Noleen Ladner and they have five children.

Family plays big role in Compretta DA job

By ELLIS CUEVAS
J.P. Compretta, Hancock County representative has been named as an assistant district attorney by Cono Caranna, district attorney-elect.

Compretta said, "When I was approached by Mr. Caranna and was presented the idea, I had to think about it and discuss the position with my family."

"In thinking about my family which includes four children from ages five to 15 years old, I decided serving as an assistant district attorney would enable me to be more at home with my family."

"It was a hard decision to make, because I knew I would have to resign as a state representative."

"The eight years I have been a representative, over two years of that time was spent at Jackson away from my wife and children."

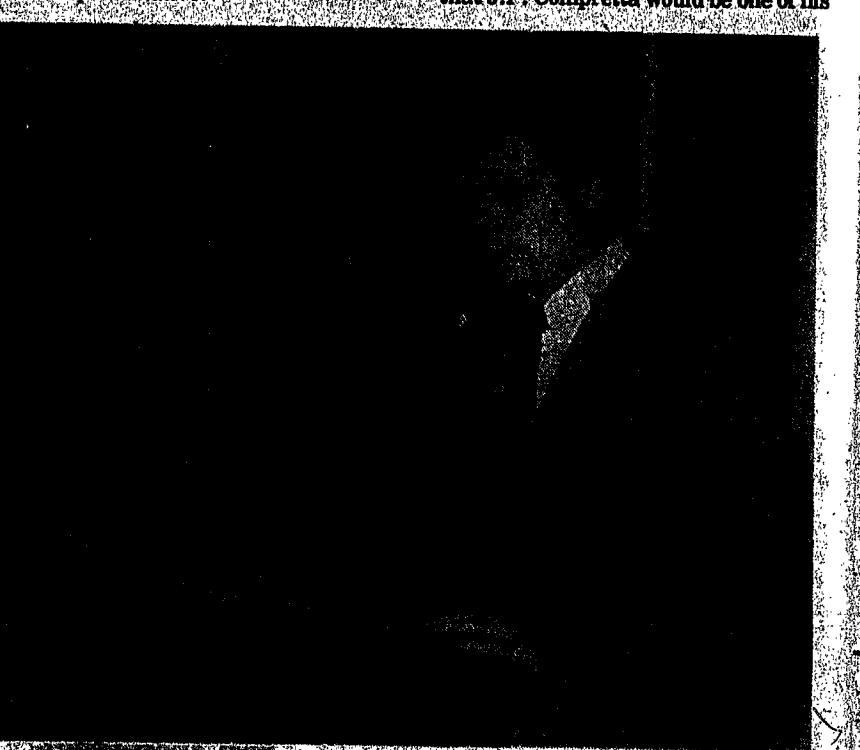

"The people of Hancock County have been very good to me, and I feel that in my new position as an assistant district attorney, I will continue to serve them, only in another way."

"As you know, I served two years as a Hancock County prosecuting attorney and I really enjoyed the type of work."

"I really appreciate the support I have received from the people of Hancock County as a state representative. At this time I would like to ask them for their continued support and understanding in my new job."

"I will still be available to assist the people of Hancock County in any way I can," Compretta added.

Compretta was unopposed in the August Primary and November General Election as Hancock County's state representative.

COMPRETTE ADDRESSES CHAMBER—J.P. Compretta, Hancock County state representative was the featured speaker for December's Chamber of Commerce's Meeting Edition. He talked on the workings of the House of Representatives in State government. The event was sponsored by the Hancock County Farm Bureau Insurance. Compretta announced that he was resigning as a representative to become an assistant district attorney for Cono Caranna, district attorney-elect. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

MAY SEEK POST
When it was announced this week by Cono Caranna, district attorney-elect, that J.P. Compretta would be one of his assistants, several names of potential candidates for representative are being speculated throughout the county by spectators.

On Friday, Walter James Phillips called this paper to report that he may be a candidate.

Phillips served 16 years as Hancock County representative and said, "I am right now going on a short vacation, and it is possible that I will be a candidate for the vacancy created with Compretta having to resign the position."

"As a matter of fact, I will be vacationing with Teddy Millette, of Pascagoula, a state representative, and Insurance chairman; and Sonny Meredith, of Greenville, a representative and chairman of the Ways and Means," Phillips stated.

Phillips is a Bay St. Louis attorney and served as vice-chairman of the Way and Means Committee when a representative.

No election date has been set as yet.

Pass-Bay winter run draws 183

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Saturday morning 183 men, women and children ranging from seven to 63 years in age braved bone-chilling winter temperatures to participate in Hancock Bank's 6.4-mile Third Annual Winter Run.

The run, administered by the Gulf Coast Running Club, began at 9:02 a.m. on Scenic Drive in front of the Pass Christian bank branch, moved west along the drive and US-90 across the Bay of St. Louis bridge and then south along North Beach Boulevard in the Bay where race ended at Dock of the Bay on a mostly overcast morning.

Many of the runners noted that a strong northeast wind on their backs along the entire course made the run, especially across the bridge, easier than expected.

First to streak across the finish line and earning the fastest time recorded in the short history of this race with a 32 minute and 30 second run was Fabian Martinez, 23, of Biloxi.

He topped the 33:01 time by Richard Mantooth last year and 32:32 set by Robert Abruscato in 1981.

Helen Rogers, 17, of Mobile was the first woman and 17th runner across the finish line with an impressive record-breaking time for this race of 38:21.

Port Bienville development hearing poorly attended

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The 'public' seemed to be absent when a Special Management Area (SMA) Plan for Port Bienville Industrial Park sailed through a public hearing at the Hancock County Courthouse Wednesday evening.

There were no questions or comments from the audience, which apparently was composed primarily of persons connected with preparation of the plan.

The plan was developed by the Mississippi Coastal Program SMA Task Force.

Task Force consultant is Ralph M. Field Associates, Inc.

Purpose of the plan is to provide for industrial expansion at Port Bienville, while protecting environmental conditions and wildlife habitats.

Hearing officials noted that economic growth, new industries and expansion of established industries have resulted in numerous requests to dredge and deepen navigation channels in tidal wetlands, to fill wetlands to provide sites for new industrial plants and to dispose of dredged materials in wetlands areas.

Because the Mississippi Coastal Wetlands Protection Act of 1973 did not provide much leeway to attract new industry, the Mississippi Coastal Program was implemented in 1980 to supplement existing regulations with affirmative management efforts, officials said.

This program designated special management areas (SMA's) and established a process for adopting management plans for these areas.

Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources Director Richard Leard described SMA as a concept that provides a planning forum for balancing public interests which compete for use of valuable coastal resources in limited geographic areas.

After an SMA Plan is approved, he said, the specific provisions of the plan will prevail over the more general provisions of the Coastal Program and will be adopted by the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation as part of the state's coastal management program.

This will speed up the permit application process, he said.

Participating agencies in the SMA

Task Force for the Port Bienville plan are Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources, Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control and Mississippi Department of Archives and History.

Also, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, U.S. National Marine Fisheries Service and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The task force, which was established in 1981 and began functioning in 1982, will continue operating into 1984.

Port and Harbor Commission member Victor Frankiewicz said the plan will enable the commission to redesign the park, which now consists of very large lots 40 to 80 acres in size, to provide both larger and smaller sites with significantly greater access to the water.

The Port Bienville plan has two phases, each phase focusing on a different area of the existing industrial park and each involving new channel construction and the creation of new waterfront industrial sites from fill material.

Phase One would be based on dredging a new industrial waterway extending from the public terminal area to the main industrial channel.

Following receipt of necessary state and federal authorization, Phase One would be carried out during the next five years.

Phase Two, to be implemented in five to 15 years, would be based on one of three different options for new channel work and development of waterfront industrial sites on fill material in the interior of the park, approximately midway along the length of the main industrial channel.

Field noted that Phase Two allows maximum flexibility to the Port and Harbor Commission because 'what it does, in effect, is to say that the task force members and the plan itself will support any one of three alternatives.'

"We are not tying you down five to ten years in the future with a single physical development concept," he said.

"All three configurations are acceptable."

PHASE ONE

A new industrial channel would be dredged to connect the existing waterway adjacent to the Port Bienville public terminal with the main industrial channel.

Through filling and bulkheading activities, industrial water frontage including docking facilities for shallow draft vessels would be developed on the eastern bank of the new channel.

Fill material would be used to prepare new industrial development sites in the area east of the channel and north of the existing public terminal. The new sites would be approximately ten acres in size.

On the opposite side of the channel, no dredging or filling activities would take place, but mooring facilities using piles and mooring dolphins would be provided.

The new channel section would be roughly 1,900 feet long and 12 feet deep, with a 300-foot right-of-way and a 150-foot bottom width.

Construction of the channel would require dredging approximately 212,700 cubic yards of material.

PHASE TWO

Option A

Option A would construct a new channel extending from the main industrial channel approximately 1,100 feet into the interior of the industrial park.

The new channel would have a bottom width of 300 feet, a right-of-way of 450 feet and a maximum depth of 12 feet.

This waterway would be perpendicular to the main channel and would create 2,700 linear feet of new industrial waterfront.

Through filling and bulkheading activities, industrial water frontage including docking facilities for shallow draft vessels would be developed on all sides of the new channel.

The new industrial sites with waterfront access would be approximately 30-40 acres in size.

Channel construction would require dredging approximately 251,500 cubic yards of material.

Option B

Option B would construct an indented barge area approximately 2,100 feet long adjacent to the main industrial channel roughly midway along the length of the main channel.

It would extend the existing boundary and 12-foot depth of the main channel approximately 160 feet towards the interior of the industrial park.

Through filling and bulkheading activities, approximately 2,100 linear feet of new industrial waterfront including docking facilities for shallow draft vessels would be developed.

New industrial sites would be approximately 30-40 acres in size. Construction would yield roughly 181,800 cubic yards of dredged material.

Option C

Option C is based on a U-shaped channel to be constructed approximately midway along the length of the main industrial channel and extend into the industrial park area.

The new channel would be connected to the main industrial waterway at two points separated by an island of fringe marsh.

The channel would have a 12-foot depth, a 150-foot bottom width, and a 300-foot right-of-way. It would create 2,400 linear feet of industrial water frontage.

This new frontage would include docking facilities for shallow draft vessels and would be developed through filling and bulkheading activities on only one side of the new channel.

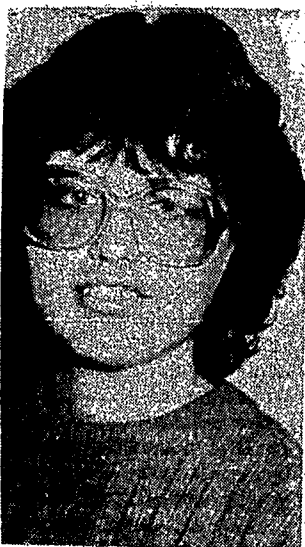

No filling and bulkheading activities would take place on the opposite side of the channel; adjacent to the fringe marsh island, but mooring facilities using piles and mooring dolphins would be provided on this side.

Construction of the channel would require dredging approximately 293,800 cubic yards of material.

According to Frankiewicz, the plan will restore and mitigate as much wildlife and fisheries habitat as is destroyed by construction.

Field said there was very little need for mediation in development of the plan for Port Bienville and that it had been a most cooperative effort among all involved.

"This plan will probably be the first of its kind on the Gulf Coast and could well provide a model for similar activities in other Gulf Coast states and other states involved in coastal management," he said.

PIANO RECITAL— Jacqueline Wilson, 14, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Wilson of Waveland, will perform this afternoon in the annual Christmas Recital by students of the Kathleen Asher Piano and Organ Studios. The event is slated for 2 p.m. at the Waveland Studio on US-90 West. In addition, Ms. Wilson also performed in a recent Gulf Coast Piano Teachers Association recital at Phillips College in Gulfport. Joanne had a dozen presents to wrap, at least three more to buy, her parents were coming, she hadn't done the grocery shopping—or started her holiday baking.

She cried. And cried.

The Christmas Blues—in cause and prevention.

We've all suffered from holiday depression to some degree. It's the season of memories, reflection—and often loneliness. But this year, with some precautions, you can turn a blue Christmas into a merry one.

Plan ahead. Have each gift in mind before you go shopping. Beat the crowd. Don't overspend. And don't wait until the last minute to clean house.

Let the family help. Assign errands and duties to family members. Share responsibility.

Be realistic. If you have guests, don't think you have to cook every day. 'Tis also the season for cold cuts and "fast food."

Reach out. If you think you're going to be alone—again—don't be embarrassed to ask people. If you don't get invited out, take the first step and reach out to others.

Be nice to yourself. This is not the time for self-evaluation. Save that for when pressures are fewer. Get help if needed. If holiday depression lasts beyond several weeks, talk with someone—a friend or professional.

People do care. They will help. Don't ever doubt—you can turn "Bah Humbug" into "Merry Christmas."

Hunter's death caused by carbon monoxide

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A Shoreline Park house painter, found dead in a pickup truck on Wednesday, died of carbon monoxide poisoning according to Ronald Peterson, Hancock County sheriff.

Peterson Saturday said, "Troy William Borchert, 25, First Street, Shoreline Park was found Wednesday night by Bill Jordan, a brother-in-law, and Huey Johnson, a hunting friend."

"There was no indication of foul play, and he apparently had been dead for a week when his body was found in a locked truck on Junior Road, off Texas Flat Road near Kiln," Peterson stated.

Borchert succumbed to carbon monoxide poisoning, determined by an autopsy performed by the coroner's office of New Orleans, Peterson said.

STOLEN TRUCK RECOVERED

A truck stolen on Dec. 1 in Michigan was recovered on Saturday morning, and the driver charged with grand larceny, according to Curtis Newman, Mississippi State Trooper.

The vehicle was a 1982 Blazer with 4-wheel drive and was stopped by Newman on I-10.

Newman said, "The driver gave his name as David Martin, and he is lodged in the Hancock County jail charged with grand larceny."

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

One of the greatest religious writers of the 1800's is without a doubt Charles Swindoll of Fullerton, CA.

He has written such books as 'Improving Your Serve' and 'Strengthening Your Grip'.

However, one of his latest books, 'Growing Strong in the Seasons of Life' is particularly good for daily devotional use. It is an anthology in short form of some of his greatest ideas.

The following is an excerpt which is highly appropriate for the Christmas season.

It is from the chapter entitled, "The Birth."

If Dan Rather had been living in 1809, his evening news broadcasts would have concentrated on Austria, not Britain or America. The entire attention of the world was on Napoleon as he swept across helpless hamlets like fire across a Kansas wheat field.

At that time of invasions and battles, babies were being born in Britain and America. But who was interested in babies and bottles, cradles and cribs in 1809 while history was being made?

Somebody should have been. A veritable host of thinkers and statesmen drew their first breath in 1809.

William Gladstone was born in Liverpool.

Alfred Tennyson began his life in Lincolnshire.

Oliver Wendell Holmes cried out in Cambridge, Mass.

Edgar Allan Poe, a few miles away in Boston, started his brief and tragic life.

A physician named Darwin and his wife called their infant son Charles Robert.

Robert Charles Winthrop wore his first diapers.

A rugged log cabin in Hardin County, Kentucky, owned by an illiterate wandering laborer was filled with the infant screams of a newborn boy named Abraham Lincoln.

All that (and more) happened in 1809 - but who cared? The destiny of the world was being shaped on battlefields in Austria - or was it? No, indeed!

Only a handful of history buffs today could name even one Austrian campaign - but who can measure the impact of those other lives? What appeared to be super significant to the world has proven to be no more exciting than a Sunday afternoon yawn. What seemed to be totally insignificant was, in fact, the genesis of an era!

Go back eighteen centuries before that. Who could have cared about the birth of a baby while the world was watching Rome in all her splendor? Palestine existed under the crush of Rome's heavy boot. All eyes were on Augustus, the cynical Caesar demanded a census so as to determine a measurement to enlarge taxes.

At that time who was interested in a couple making an eighty mile journey south from Nazareth? What could possibly be more important than Caesar's decisions in Rome? Who cared about a Jewish baby born in Bethlehem?

God did. Without realizing it, mighty Augustus was only an errand boy for the fulfillment of Micah's prediction - a pawn in the hand of Jehovah - a piece of lint in the pages of prophecy.

While Rome was busy making history, God arrived! He pitched His fleshly tent in silence on straw - in a stable under a star.

The world didn't even notice. Reeling from the wake of Alexander the Great, Herod the Great, Augustus the Great, the world overlooked Mary's little Lamb.

It still does.

Congratulations are in order for William (Bill) Breland on his being selected as the 1983 Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Outstanding Citizen.

The award was presented to Breland at the chamber's annual banquet held Friday night at Diamondhead.

Others honored included David Garcia, Hancock County deputy sheriff, as the Outstanding Law Enforcement Officer, with Sandra Henley, Waveland investigator, and Captain Robert Butler, of the Bay St. Louis Police Department being cited from their respective departments.

In an area in which many of us pay little attention, especially us 'city folks', Jerry Keith Shaw was honored as the Farmer of the Year, and Paul Harris as Young Farmer of the Year.

All these people are to be commended on their achievements.

One event lacking in our county is a Christmas parade which is popular in many areas.

On Friday, Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett indicated he is going to work towards a Christmas parade next year.

This we think is a great idea and we will be looking forwards to a Christmas parade next year.

We are happy to hear Governor William Winter has accepted the position of chancellor of Ole Miss.

It will be a change for Governor Winter, but we feel he will do a fine job at the University.

Santa will be visiting in only a few days, and if you haven't done your Christmas shopping as yet, you best get busy.

Holiday death decrease expected under new law

The upcoming Christmas and New Year's celebrations will be the first since the new Driving Under the Influence law has been in effect.

Public safety officials are hopeful that traffic deaths will be lower than the 16 recorded for the two holiday periods last year.

Col. Donald Butler, chief of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol, said the 78-hour Christmas observance begins Friday, Dec. 23 at 6 p.m., and ends on Monday, Dec. 26 at midnight.

The following Friday, Dec. 30 at 6 p.m., the New Year's holiday observance begins and extends through midnight on Monday, Jan. 2.

Nine people were killed in traffic accidents during the Christmas observance last year and seven lost their lives during the New Year's holidays.

Three of the seven were killed in one accident when a driver was traveling in the wrong lane on a two-lane highway on New Year's day.

An additional 27 troopers have been commissioned into the Highway Patrol within the past month to strengthen manpower in the enforcement division for the two holiday periods.

All days off and leaves of absence have been canceled for troopers throughout the state for both 78-hour periods.

About the Driving Under the Influence (DUI) law, Butler said, "We feel the message that drunken drivers will be arrested is finally getting through to drivers."

"Records show that during July, the first month in which the new law was implemented, 2,133 DUI arrests were made. In August the arrest figure climbed to 2,743 and to 2,871 in September.

"It took those three months for drivers to realize that a DUI charge is serious. In October there were 2,548 DUI arrests, a decline of 323."

"This tells us that word is getting around that drivers who drink alcohol and register .10 on a breath testing instrument are jeopardizing their privilege to drive," the chief said.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN:

People tend to litter where litter has already accumulated. Throwing trash from an automobile—be it a glass bottle, a metal container, or paper products—is like saying to someone else: throw yours, it's alright.

CHAMBER MORNING EDITION—Many Hancock County Chamber of Commerce members attended the Morning Edition held at the Fairway Villa at Diamondhead on Thursday morning. The event was sponsored by the Hancock County Farm Bureau Insurance with J.P. Compretta, state representative, as the featured speaker. Compretta spoke on the role played by representatives in state government. At the end of his talk, Compretta announced he was resigning as representative to accept a position with Cono-Caramia, district attorney-elect, as an assistant district attorney. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Mississippi agriculture commissioner reports status of fire ant eradication effort

Editor's Note: The Sea Coast Echo correspondent Mrs. Joe Pilet has inquired into the current status of the state's war on the fire ant. Following is a response she received from Mississippi Agriculture Commissioner Jim Buck Ross.

Mrs. Joe Pilet
520 Highland Drive
Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520

Dear Mrs. Pilet:

Your letter concerning the possibility of re-instating free distribution of fire ant bait through the County Agricultural Agents through out the State of Mississippi is appreciated and I agree that it should be done, but there is the problem of funding for this project.

First, the Mississippi Legislature did not appropriate funds in the 1982 or 1983 session to control the Imported Fire Ant. The Legislature did transfer the duties and responsibilities of the control program to Mississippi Authority for the Control of Fire Ants, a Division of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, and a special fund agency.

Special fund means that the agency must generate its own funds. Without approval from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for the use of Ferriamicide we have no way to generate funds. EPA has now denied our request for the use of Ferriamicide.

Second, the U.S. Department of Agriculture was funding 50 percent of all distribution through the County Agents. USDA has now changed the criteria for their participation in a control program. At present USDA will cost share on an aerial or broadcast application program that involves the treatment of all land allowable under the pesticide label on a farm-to-farm basis.

USDA will only cost share on the treatment of public lands which are owned or controlled by a governmental unit, i.e. state, county, city or township. The intention is to assist with the treatment of high public-use areas such as school grounds, picnic or park areas, cemeteries, etc. The spot treatment of privately owned properties will not be approved for USDA participation in a cooperative Imported Fire Ant program.

There is money available from USDA on a 50-50 matching basis for a program provided it meets the above criteria. Because the Legislature did not appropriate funds for a control program and because EPA did not approve the use of Ferriamicide so that we could generate our own funds, the Department cannot participate in a fire ant bait give away program.

In federal fiscal 83 which ended Sept. 30, 1983 the Department notified each county of the funding problem and ask that the county participate directly with USDA according to the USDA criteria for participation. Six counties took advantage of this offer, however, Hancock was not one of those counties. This same program will be available to the counties in the spring.

The only way to have free distribution of fire ant bait in a county is for the Board of Supervisors to buy the bait. The Department has advised the Boards of Supervisors of this. A plan for the purchase of one pound packages of bait by the Board from American Cyanamid Company has been worked out.

Should you or the Hancock Board of Supervisors need more information concerning controlling the fire ant, please feel free to call Marion Ueltschey at 354-6552 or write him at P.O. Box 1609, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

I appreciate your interest in controlling the fire ant in Mississippi.

Sincerely,
Jim Buck Ross,
Commissioner
Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce

SMALL-BUSINESS ECONOMIC INDICATORS CONTINUE STRONG

Small business continues to provide good news on the economic front. The latest Quarterly Economic Report of the National Federation of Independent Business shows small-business optimism is the fifth highest in the 10-year history of the survey.

Seasonally adjusted, it remains unchanged from the record level of last July. In addition, NFIB economist William Dunkelberg says rate of growth of the Gross National Product will remain "very strong" in the fourth quarter.

Earlier Quarterly Economic Reports predicted stronger GNP growth in the second and third quarters of 1983—8.6 and 8.8 percent respectively—than did most other national forecasts.

However, even our bright forecasts "turned out to be too low." The second quarter growth rate is now thought to have been 9.7 percent, while early estimates say the third quarter rate of growth may exceed 7.9 percent.

A near-record number of firms—33 percent—plan to make capital outlays in the next six months. One of the reasons for the planned increases, according to Dunkelberg, is that business owners believe interest rates will not get any lower—and may even go up in the near future.

Furthermore, production capacity is being used up rapidly, and to keep pace with demand, more capacity will be needed. Record cash flow and profits are available to finance a large chunk of expansion costs, and the prospect of continued good earnings makes investment appear more profitable, despite high interest rates.

There is equally good news concerning unemployment. Dunkelberg says employment growth in the fourth quarter should be very strong and he thinks the unemployment rate will continue to decline.

The fourth quarter unemployment rate should average just above 8 percent, and the NFIB economist predicts it will dip below the 8-percent mark in December as small-business owners continue to add employees.

Small business is the major producer of new jobs in the economy and, therefore, a good indicator of employment trends. Small firms added an average of 0.3 employees in the third quarter—the highest figure recorded by NFIB since the second quarter of 1979.

The outlook for inflation is good, too. Only 21 percent of the more than 2,200 firms surveyed by NFIB plan any price increases. Increases are expected to average less than 5 percent as measured by the non-food Consumer Price Index.

Of course, there will always be segments of the economy that lag behind the indicators, but because the NFIB Quarterly Economic Report has an excellent track record and because small business traditionally leads the way out of economic recession, there is every reason to believe that 1984 will be a good year for most businesses and will be a better year for many of those Americans still out of work.

(John Sloan is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.)

Rapid weight loss seldom justified

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.)

For most overweight persons, there is no medical justification for rapid weight loss or a nutritionally imbalanced diet.

The Mississippi State Medical

Association points out that the good weight-reduction diet is one that is reduced in calories but is adequate in nutrients.

Regular meals and the Four Food Groups (Milk, Meat, Bread/Cereal and Vegetable/Fruit) form the basis of a good diet that is suitable or adaptable for people with different health problems.

There are no weight-reducing foods. When you lose weight, it's because you are taking in fewer calories than you're using. Total calories, not the foods they come from, make the difference. Bear in mind, though, that fats are the most concentrated source of calories.

Reducing salons and health clubs are fine, if you can afford them. Group workouts may give moral support, but you can exercise just as well at home. Be wary of salons that promote unusual diet plans or special foods and supplements. Don't place your faith in exercise machines that require little if any work on your part.

Protein supplements are unnecessary. Most people can and should get all the protein they need from ordinary foods. The drugs that have been misused in treating overweight people include appetite suppressors, bulk fillers, diuretics, human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG), laxatives, thyroid preparations and vitamins (injections).

These drugs have legitimate medical uses, but their use in weight control is largely for cosmetic purposes. Water pills (diuretics) and laxatives have no effect on weight control. Many people who have lost weight and kept it off have done so by eating a balanced diet and exercising regularly.

Supervisors commit $145,000 to new computer service

By NAN PATTON EHREBRIGHT
"I asked for a pickup and you gave me a Lincoln," Tax Assessor Edward Murtagh told the Hancock County Supervisors Thursday after they gave tentative approval to an initial $145,000 expenditure for computer service from Gulf Coast Regional Planning Commission.

The approval is based on Mississippi Tax Commission approval to use funds from the two mills levied for reappraisal to pay for computer service to complete the appraisal of property in Hancock County.

Jim Head of Gulf Coast Planning Commission told the supervisors that the commission has issued a letter of intent to purchase a computer from Intergraph Corporation, headquartered in Huntsville, Alabama.

The commission is now in the process of offering computer service to local governmental entities, including Jackson County, Pearl River County and Stone County, he said.

According to Head, Harrison County made a $250,000 commitment for the service last week.

The computer, Head said, has 'state of the art' capabilities and could be used not only for updating ownership maps and reappraisal but for numerous other tasks.

It could be used, he said, for readily identifying all water lines, fire plugs, police, fire and civic defense units, sewer lines or telephone poles.

It could include population surveys and census data, he said.

"It could tell you how many $80,000 homes there are in Hancock County, and who owns them. It could tell you how many miles of asphalt hard surface roads you have."

In the event of a natural emergency like a tornado or hurricane, he said, it could estimate in a matter of minutes the value of damaged real property.

When flooding occurs, he said, the computer could identify which road would be subject to flooding as waters rise.

Gulf Coast Planning Commission employee Jeff Taylor said it appears the computer could also be used for voter registration, motor vehicle registration, and for such tasks as routing school buses.

Taylor said the computer would enable the county to integrate numerous functions that are currently independent, probably with no additional help required to make it work.

Head told the supervisors Thursday that some federal monies will be used to help pay for the computer, and he said, "If we get an affirmative answer from this board, we can buy it."

The affirmative answer was given, with Supervisor James Travira voting nay. Travira said Friday he voted against the proposal because Murtagh did not make a specific recommendation for the proposal.

"We hired Eddie to do the reappraisal, and he's never let us down," Travira said.

Travira questioned both the cost of the project and the need for such highly-sophisticated equipment.

"I think Gulf Regional Planning Commission is trying to get the counties to buy them a computer," he said.

In addition to the base cost of $125,000 plus another $20 for equipment and software, Hancock County will have a $2,500 monthly maintenance fee for Intergraph service.

Plans for the computer service do not include the installation of a computer work station in Hancock County.

The work station would add $39,000 to the county bill.

Murtagh's office currently pays for computer time from Hancock Bank at the rate of $25,000 to $30,000 per year, he said.

Murtagh told the supervisors in a written statement that the Intergraph System "would more than serve the needs of the reappraisal program."

"There is no doubt of the capabilities of this particular system, but I feel that our needs for this county at this particular time are not that extensive," the statement said.

"The capabilities of the system...are far-reaching and may serve the engineering requirements of this board in the future to a great extent."

"...the system presented is by far more than is needed by the assessing office at this time. However, you gentlemen must decide if such an expenditure would be wise for the future general use of the county."

Head told the supervisors that costs could be reduced.

"For every member that becomes a part, there's an opportunity to reduce the cost," he said.

"And in the event that down the road, say four years, the system would be full, there are several ways to expand it," he added.

In other business Thursday, the supervisors:

Agreed to request that the Anne-Necaise Road and Dummy Line Highway 603 Road be placed on the state aid system so they will be eligible for bridge replacement project funds;

Agreed to make a three percent advance payment to Engineer Larry Seal for his costs in connection with plans for bridge work on the above roads; and Reappointed Cleveland Wyatt Jr. and Ray Shiyon for five-year terms on the Kilm Water and Fire Protection District.

A FINE PET—Sheba is the name of this mixed breed medium-size black dog now at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. The female dog was left at the shelter by her family just before they moved recently. Sheba reportedly loves children, obeys several commands and enjoys 'shaking hands.' State unemployment rate continues drop

Mississippi's unemployment rate dropped to 10.4 percent in November, a decrease of eight-tenths of a percentage point compared to October's revised jobless rate of 11.1 percent, according to Mississippi Employment Security Commission Executive Director Cohen Robertson.

Last year's November unemployment rate was 11.2. The 10.4 percent unemployment rate for the state however was higher than the 8.1 percent national rate for November.

MESC figures showed 108,900 unemployed and 933,900 employed out of a civilian labor force of 1,042,800. The initial unemployment insurance claims totalled 20,462 in November.

Fifty of the state's 82 counties had unemployment rates of 10.0 percent or higher in November. Of that number, one county had an unemployment rate of 20.0 percent or above.

The counties having the highest unemployment rates in November were George, with an unemployment rate of 20.3 percent; Tishomingo, with 18.9 percent; Jefferson, with 18.4 percent; and Jackson, with an unemployment rate of 17.6 percent.

Rankin, Oktibbeha and Hinds counties had the lowest jobless rates in November. Rankin had a rate of 5.9 percent, Oktibbeha had a rate of 6.8 percent and Hinds had an unemployment rate of 7.0 percent.

Sixty-five counties showed a decrease in their unemployment rates from October to November, while only fourteen counties reported increases, and three counties stayed the same.

House rule change proposals would shift power from speaker

Thirteen veteran and newly-elected members of the Mississippi House of Representatives held a press conference last week to call for changes in the rules of the state House when the Legislature convenes on Jan. 3.

They proposed rules which would provide for the 122 elected state representatives to retain more authority in their own hands and curb the power of the speaker of the house and committee chairmen.

The lawmakers issued the following statement:

"This year the people of Mississippi elected 122 state representatives, but a more important election will be held on Jan. 3, to decide who will really wield the power in the Legislature for the next four years."

"If the old rules of the House are adopted on the first day of the session, the members as a whole will have given away 90 percent of the power the people gave to them when they were elected. "We are asking the members-elect to vote on Jan. 3 for new rules that will bring about a more truly representative House. We are asking the people throughout our state to declare their strong support for these rule changes to their state representatives. We want only to have real democracy in the Mississippi House of Representatives."

PROPOSALS FOR CHANGE

First, the House Rules Committee, which is now appointed by the speaker, would be elected by the members of the House—two members from each of the state's five congressional districts.

The speaker would automatically be a member and chairman of the Rules Committee. The Rules Committee would appoint the other committees of the House, and the chairmen and vice-chairmen of those committees.

Second, if a committee chairman refuses to call a meeting of his committee, or refuses to call up a bill for consideration in his committee, a majority of the members of that committee may call the committee into session or call up a bill for consideration.

This would remove the arbitrary control of committee chairmen over legislation, and would put into practice the basic principle of democracy that the majority rules.

Third, the Rules Committee or the full House could more easily override the decision of the speaker on which committee should consider each bill. Many good bills do not pass because they are referred to "killer" committees.

Fourth, the speaker shall be obliged to recognize members for business on the floor of the House in the order in which they seek recognition.

Often, members have been refused the right to make motions which the House leadership opposed, so that the elected members were denied the right to vote their convictions.

Fifth, no member could serve as chairman and/or vice-chairman of more than one standing committee. This rule would help to prevent control of positions of power by a small number of people.

Sixth, every bill reported out of committee would be placed on the members' desks at least one whole legislative day before being considered by the full House.

This rule would assure the members time to study bills carefully, and consider amendments to them.

This rule could be suspended only with the unanimous consent of the House.

Many times, unrelated bills have been tacked onto unrelated bills, and the members have been forced to vote on them without knowing what they were doing.

Candlelight vows join Strong, Breland

First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the November 12 marriage of Kimberly Lane Breland and David Michael Strong. Rev. Nathan Barber officiated at the 6 p.m. candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Breland of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Strong, also of Bay St. Louis.

Brass candelabra flanked with arrangements of white silk mums, roses, pink tiger lilies and baby's breath decorated the sanctuary. The aisle was lined with candlesticks adorned with lovebirds and garlands of stephanotis, lace and greenery decorated the altar.

The bride and groom lit a unity candle flanked with greenery, lace and lovebirds. Nuptial music was presented by Gail Carr, organist, and John Mason, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chiffon trimmed with pearl decorated schiffli and venise lace medallions with iridescent highlights. The Victorian bodice featured an embroidered yoke edged with wedgewood lace, Victorian sleeves of wedgewood and ribbon lace marked with satin ribbon bows. The gracefully flared skirt was bordered with a ribbon lace ruffle and lace ruffles extended from the back waistline to the edge of the cathedral train. She wore a small brimmed hat covered with schiffli lace and bordered with venise lace with a pouf of illusion at the back and waltz length streamers.

She carried a cascade of white roses, rosebuds, pink tea roses, periwinkles and stephanotis interspersed with tiny white lights and white lace with baby's breath.

Kelyn Kidd Breland was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kerri Breland and Angela Koenen, cousins of the bride; Terry Strong, sister of the groom; and Kristi Breland, sister of the bride.

The attendants were attired in formal gowns of wine tissue taffeta, each featuring ruffled portrait collar, puffed sleeves, cummerbund waistline and full gathered skirts. They wore hand-crocheted white gloves and carried silk nosegays of wine and white roses and baby's breath with ribbon streamers.

Miss Chari Strong, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a pink taffeta dress with ruffled collar, short puffed sleeves, ruffle hemline which swept to a bustle back. A wreath of pink silk roses and baby's breath with ribbon streamers adorned her hair.

Frank Wheat, cousin of the groom, was best man.

Groomsman were Mark Breland, cousin of the groom; Steve Seymour and Ed Pernicaro and Monty Strong, brother of the groom.

Ushers were Clark Breland, Glen Macquik, Raymond John Thomas and Scott Krankey, all cousins of the bride.

Chance Fricke, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Breland chose for her daughter's wedding a dusty rose crepe taffeta one-shouldered gown with matching jacket. Mrs. Strong was attired in an aubergine alesta gown with chiffon bodice, mandarin collar and embroidered yoke, capelet sleeves and flared skirt. A reception followed the ceremony at Jordan River Shores Clubhouse.

Glass, Brothers to exchange vows

KATHY DENISE GLASS

Mrs. Doris Glass of Kiln announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Kathy Denise Glass, to Dwayne William Brothers, son of Ms. Peggy Buckles of Waldron, Ark.

The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Hancock North Central High School. She attended Jefferson Davis Junior College and Central Bible College in Springfield, Mo., where she was the recipient of a missions scholarship and academic scholarship. She is employed with Kmart in Waveland.

The prospective groom is a 1979 graduate of Waldron High School. He attended Arkansas Tech University and was listed in Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities. He was graduated Cum Laude from Central Bible College with a bachelor of arts degree in bible studies, and was the recipient of a pastoral scholarship. He is associate pastor of First Assembly of God Church in Sallisaw, Okla.

The couple will exchange vows January 7 in a 3 p.m. ceremony at the Faith Assembly of God Church in Kiln. Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Diamondhead Krewe names Land King Queen

The Krewe of Diamondhead selected the King and Queen of Land to rule over their Mardi Gras Ball and Parade. Captain Benny Mistretta presided over the selection when Jerry H. Bourg was named King Ali'i Honua IX and Lorraine Heier, Queen. The theme of 1984 will be "The Wonders of Science Fiction."

Jerry H. Bourg is married to Hilda and they have two children, Denise and Kevin.

He works at the Naval Oceanographic Office and is head of Program Support Section. He is the treasurer of the Diamondhead Community Association, assistant coach for Pat's Chevron under 12 soccer team with the Bay Area Youth Soccer, board member for Youth Life Organization, member of the Krewe of Triton, district chairman-elect for the Cypress District New Orleans Council Boy Scouts of America, Fourth Degree Knight of Columbus, former treasurer and volunteer firefighter for the Diamondhead Volunteer Fire Department and former vice president of the Diamondhead Riding Club.

Mrs. Thomas J. Heier Jr.,

the former Lorraine Schoen of New Orleans, has participated in numerous civic activities during her four years in this community.

In 1979 she was selected as chairman of the Newcomers committee, presenting monthly luncheons for the Newcomers to the Diamondhead area, serving in this capacity for 1½ years.

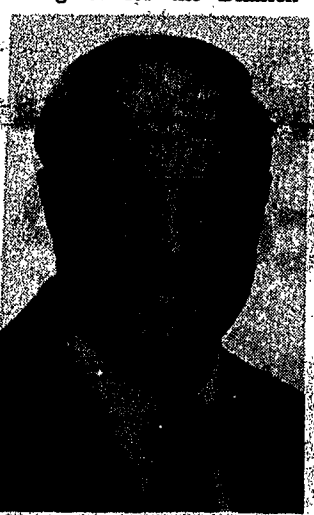

Mrs. Heier was elected secretary of the Diamondhead Community Association and the subsequent year was elected to the board of that association.

She is presently a board member of Young Life, an international Christian youth organization. Also, at this time, she is serving on the Task Force Committee (President Reagan's Chemical People Program) for the Diamondhead area.

Mrs. Heier resides with her husband, Tommy, and daughter, Schoen, in the Diamondhead community.

The coronation ball will be Sunday, Feb. 12, at the Diamondhead Country Club in which King Ali'i Honua VIII, Tommy Heier Jr. and Queen Hilda Bourg will crown the royalty for 1984.

Chris Arnos will be the parade captain and will receive float, band and walking group applications for the Saturday, March 3 parade.

Coast Episcopal dancers entertain St. Monica Guild

By JOE PILET

The home of Mrs. Herman E. de Vries, West Beach Boulevard, Pass Christian was the scene Monday of a traditional Christmas meeting of members of the St. Monica Guild Women of Trinity Church.

Featured on the program were a dozen "Dance Sacks" performers who are seventh grade students at the Coast Episcopal School. Nita Wilson Klein, drama and music teacher at the school trained the group.

Sacks made of stretch fabric in colors of black, blue and rose completely covered the dancers and it was explained that loss of identity made it possible for the students to be more creative and less shy when performing.

Prior to the interpretative dances, Mrs. Walter A. Martin, program chairman, presented Mrs. Richard Stewart who read paragraphs written by the students and giving their sentiments about dance sack innovations and the instructor. Climaxing the dances, the group produced and decorated a Christmas tree, then revealed their identity before singing a group of carols.

Mrs. J. Randolph Buck, who has served two terms as president of the guild presented her gavel of authority to the incoming president, Mrs. Richard Hadden. Officers for the 1984 term include Mrs. Walter A. Martin, vice president; Mrs. John Frith, treasurer, Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet, secretary and Mrs. Bert Havard, corresponding secretary.

It was announced that the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Joseph Nugon at 533 East Beach in Pass Christian will be opened for the annual St. Valentine Silver Tea, sponsored by St. Monica Guild.

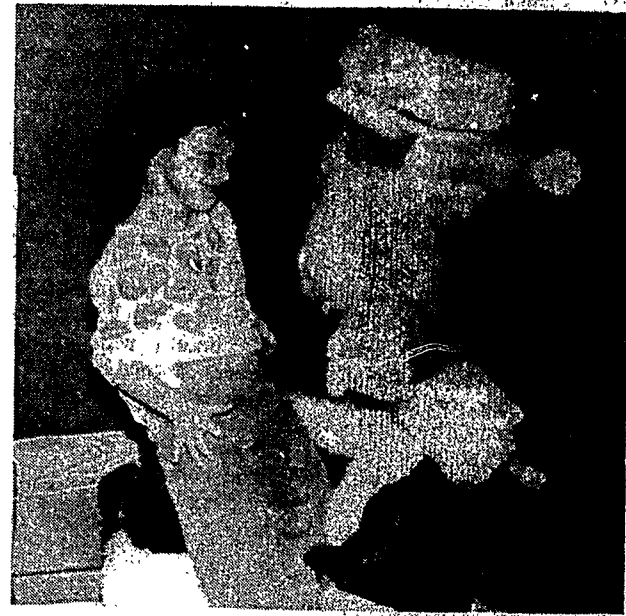

The tea, given annually, is considered a major social event of the season, with funds designated for church and community related projects. Last year's tea featured the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Monroe of 845 East Beach Boulevard which set a record for both attendance and contributions.

The beautifully appointed reception rooms displayed exquisite paintings, the work of the late artists, Ms. Earle de Vries as well as those of her husband. A jewel decorated tree was featured as well as wreaths of unusual craftsmanship, made by Mrs. de Vries, an artist in her own right, who specializes in dried arrangements.

A festive table featured many dainties where Mrs. Rosemond Wallace served wines while Mrs. Hadden presided at the tea service.

Also assisting were Mesdames Harrington Hilzini, Avery Katz, Ducrose Stouse, and C. B. Kennedy.

Wheat dish a gourmet treat

By Melissa Mixon
Nutrition Education Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service
Bulgur, a wheat food eaten for centuries in certain countries of the Near East, is considered a gourmet food in the United States.
In making bulgur, the wheat is parboiled and dried and some of the bran is removed. Bulgur may be sold whole or cracked.
Cooked bulgur has a nutlike flavor and a slightly chewy texture. Bulgur can be used in many of the same ways people use rice.

For added variety in meals, serve cooked bulgur as a breakfast cereal or as a vegetable. Bulgur also can be added to meat loaves, meatballs, stuffed peppers or casserole dishes.
Cooking methods for bulgur are similar to those for rice. Like rice, bulgur is not washed before cooking or rinsed after cooking. Cook in just the amount of water that will be absorbed during cooking.
One cup of dry, cracked bulgur yields 3 to 3½ cups cooked bulgur.

Crockpot cooking a holiday time saver

Crockpot cooking can solve nearly any holiday meal problem -- a day out shopping, staying late for office parties or feeding house guests.

"It's especially helpful during the holidays to be able to plan and cook ahead," said Barbara McLaurin, a food and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"A crockpot offers other benefits too," Mrs. McLaurin said. "There's dollar-savings at the meat counter. You can use cheaper cuts because the crockpot tenderizes. It also reduces shrinkage. And there's dollar-savings on energy--your cooker will run all day for pennies."

"Plus, since this is low-temperature cooking, valuable proteins and vitamins are less likely to be destroyed than in stove-top cooking."

Mrs. McLaurin, however, still urges care.

"There can be a slight risk of food poisoning in crockpot cooking if you're not careful about how you handle foods," she said.

Why?
"Because, crockpot cooking is slow cooking," Mrs. McLaurin said. "This means food is cooked at relatively low temperatures--170 degrees to 200 degrees Fahrenheit is the range for most pots--for long time periods."
"A short cooking time in a crockpot would be three hours. A long cooking time could run 8 or 12 hours," she added to soups or stews at the start of cooking. Once cooked, said.

"As a result, there can be up to a two-hour danger period at the start before the pot gets hot enough to kill most common food poisoning bacteria," Mrs. McLaurin said. "This is especially true for meat and poultry, which can be infected by staph, salmonella--maybe perfringens--the kind of bacteria that cause mild-to-severe symptoms similar to intestinal flu."

The best solution to the crockpot time-lag problem is to make sure no bacteria are allowed to grow in food before you put it in the pot, she said.

McLaurin offers these bacteria-stopping hints:

—Refrigerate all foods that need it as soon as you get home from the store. This should be a routine practice particularly in crockpot cooking. Refrigeration prevents any bacteria that could reproduce rapidly in the two-hour danger period from getting a head start.

—If you prepare your raw ingredients the night before--say, cubing beef and dicing vegetables--put them back into the refrigerator until you're ready to start the crockpot. Again, you're stopping bacterial growth.

—Don't use frozen meat or poultry in your crockpot. Some manuals say you can, but Mrs. McLaurin says "No!" It takes longer to cook frozen meat, and lengthens the time for the crockpot to heat it to a bacteria-killing temperature. Using frozen meat also can result in undercooking, because cooking times given in crockpot cookbooks are based on thawed ingredients.

—Don't over-load your crockpot. Portions of meat or vegetables sticking up above the cooking area won't get fully cooked. Too many 'things stuffed in' also increase the density of the contents. This means it will take longer to cook the contents thoroughly. Since overloading can delay and make full cooking uncertain, it raises the chance of bacterial infection.

—Don't reheat leftovers in your crockpot. Refrigerate leftovers as soon as your meal is over. Reheat them later at high, stove-top temperatures before re-serving. High temperatures kill most bacteria quickly.

Why the concern over leftovers? Because leftovers are prime growing places for food poisoning bacteria.

"Most bacteria--both helpful and harmful--are killed by cooking," Mrs. McLaurin said. "A cooked product that sits for some time at room temperature, presents a clear field for new food poisoning organisms."

Finally remember the crockpot is an electrical appliance, so follow your owner's manual carefully on washing and cleaning it. With most models, the electrical component cannot be submerged in water.

Sacred Heart Brothers provincial to attend African leadership meet

Brother Xavier Werneth, provincial superior of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart in the New Orleans Province, will participate in a general leadership meeting of the members of his religious community in Lesotho, Africa from Dec. 30 to Jan. 7.

"Purpose of the meeting is to discuss with African Brothers the needs of the Church in Africa, the needs of the brothers in particular, and ways of creating better cooperation, coordination, and communication among the three U.S. provinces with brothers in Africa and the four African districts where they work.

At present, the three U.S. provinces of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart have 51 brothers in English-speaking countries of Africa: Lesotho, Zambia, Zimbabwe, Kenya, and Uganda.

Representatives from each of these countries will participate in the workshop.

Present at the conference of leaders will be the other two U.S. provincials of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, Brother Patrick Reidy of New York and Brother John Collignon of New England; the Superior General of the Institute, Brother Jean-Charles Daignault from Rome and his assistant Brother Marcel Riviere; Brother Johannes Mpheteng, the regional superior of Lesotho and his counsellors; Brother Robert Martineau, regional superior of Zambia; and Brother Simplicio Mpondi of Zimbabwe.

While in Lesotho, Brother Xavier will confer with a missionary from his province.

Brother Geoffrey Kerwin who was recently named principal of Sacred Heart High School at Saint Monica, Lesotho.

BROTHER WERNETH

From there, Brother Xavier will fly from Johannesburg, South Africa, on to Nairobi, Kenya, and to Kampala, Uganda.

From Kampala, he will travel by car to Gulu, where brothers from the New Orleans Province teach at Lacor Seminary.

While there, he will meet with Bishop Cypriano Kilhagire and present him with a plaque to hang in the cathedral at Gulu.

The plaque will commemorate the 50 years of service that the Brothers of the Sacred Heart have rendered to the youth of Uganda in Catholic education.

Over 600 Americans Brothers have served as missionaries to Uganda since the brothers first went to Gulu in the early 1930's.

From Uganda, Brother Xavier will travel to Nkubu, Kenya where Brothers of the Sacred Heart from the New York Province work in the local seminary, at a diocesan high school, and at a boarding school.

On the way home, Brother Xavier plans to stop in London where Brother Patrick McGinity from Bay St. Louis, is teaching at St. Albans on a two-year exchange program with a brother from the District of England.

NICHOLAS NICKLEBY RETURNS--The Emmy Award-winning epic presentation of "Nicholas Nickleby" will be telecast on Mississippi ETV on four consecutive evenings, beginning Monday, Jan. 2, at 8 p.m. At right is Roger Rees as Nickleby, and at left is David Threlfall as Smike.

DAR presents citizenship manual to Pass Library

By JOE PILET
Vice Regent
Friendship Oak
Chapter

National Society DAR

As a gesture of good will, several copies of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Manual for Citizenship were presented this week to the Pass Christian Public Library. The manual is published as a public service by the society, is printed in English only and was originally compiled in 1920 by Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel.

President Ronald Reagan's message appears on page VII and is addressed to all naturalized citizens of the United States.

These citizens were aided in passing requirements for citizenship by use of the clear-cut and simplified language of the pamphlet designed for the purpose of assisting those immigrants during the period of time they are preparing for examinations.

The President said, "In adopting the United States of America as your homeland, I want to congratulate you as a new citizen of this nation we hold so dear. As you begin a new life, you share with us, as a people, the responsibilities and privileges of determining the course of our future. We are striving to embrace once again those principles and truths which forged us as a nation. Today, working together to recapture that spirit, we can enhance the growth and opportunities for future generations."

The President concluded his address by asking citizens to "resume your individual duties toward rebuilding our strength and securing our freedom and blessings for not only ourselves, but for our children and our children's children."

Covered in the manual is a list of American holidays, a glossary, names of the U.S. presidents, together with their home states, date of service, and political party affiliations.

The oath of citizenship, the history of the Constitution, the Preamble, Bill of Rights, national motto, and explanation and illustration in color of the great seal of the United States is included together with photographs, flag code regulations, and other information of interest to history students as well as new arrivals in this country.

EXBURY GARDENS

"The Glory of the Garden," a documentary film about Lionel de Rothschild's 250-acre Gardens of Exbury, can be seen at 8 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 1 on the Mississippi ETV Network. It will be rebroadcast at 3 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 7.

Rothschild once described himself as a "banker by hobby—gardener by profession." He financed expeditions to the Himalayas to collect many and varied strains of the plant that he loved most, the rhododendron.

He constructed a private railway to transport rocks for his rockery, the largest in Europe, and a true replica of the rhododendron's original and natural habitat of Tibet. Rothschild created more than 1,200 hybrids of rhododendron and hybrids of its sub-species, the azalea. He was considered by many to be the greatest creator of plant hybrids who ever lived.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

"Between Life and Death," a half-hour documentary, uncovers the myths and realities of Alzheimer's Disease, at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 3 on the Mississippi ETV Network. Health care experts say in the program that Alzheimer's Disease, or "senility" as it is commonly known, may be the greatest public health threat of the future.

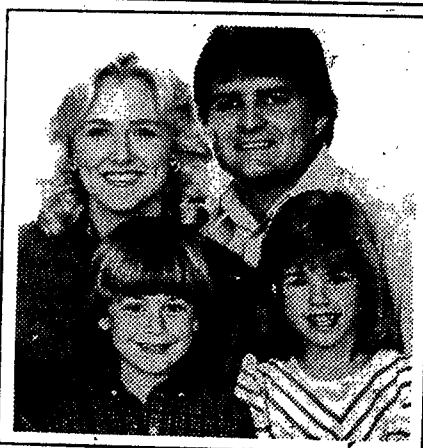

The disease is one of constant loss: memory, verbal ability and mental and physical control. It eventually leads to the death of its victim. The "Between Life and Death" looks at the biochemistry involved in current research and the efforts being made to monitor victims in early stages of senility in hopes of halting the disease.

The documentary also uncovers the devastating dimensions of the disease through candid conversations with senility victims, their families and researchers. In a support the program that Alzheimer's group for families of senility

Toy Safety Questions and Answers

1. How many children are injured each year in accidents associated with toys, bicycles, and other children's products?

A. Estimated injuries treated in hospital emergency rooms in 1982:

—toys, 123,000 (data indicate that injuries have decreased slightly from last year).

—bicycles, 400,000 children under 15

—sleds, 22,000 children under 15

—skates, 97,000 children under 15

—skateboards, 14,700 children under 15

B. Reported fatalities for 1982. There were 17 fatalities reported to CPSC:

4 tricycles, (2 children hit by automobiles while on tricycles)

6 balloons, (choking)

2 small parts (balls) (choking)

1 marble (choking)

1 toy with cord (strangulation)

1 model airplane, (struck by radio-controlled airplane)

1 chemistry set, (ingested concentrated salt solution)

1 unidentified toy, (slipped on toy and hit head on floor)

2. What kinds of accidents are associated with toys?

Many toy-related injuries occur as a result of sudden impact with a toy, such as a fall onto a toy, or impact from a thrown toy. Young children are especially vulnerable to choking and suffocation hazards—trying to swallow small pieces of toys or household items or becoming entangled in strings, cords, or clothing.

3. What does CPSC do to assure toy safety?

The Commission has set mandatory safety standards for electric toys, bicycles, pacifiers, and infant rattles, toys with sharp points and edges, lead paint in toys, and small parts in toys. There are approximately 150,000 different toys on the market and the Commission cannot test them all.

It is the manufacturer's responsibility to assure that its products meet the requirements. Many toy manufacturers have extensive testing programs. The Commission does some testing to check for compliance and to follow up on consumer complaints. However, CPSC does not have the authority to "approve or endorse" toys for safety.

During the past year, CPSC investigated consumer and trade complaints and reports of injuries and deaths by conducting inspections of toy manufacturers, importers, and distributors and collecting samples of suspect toys.

Manufacturers and importers have been requested to take corrective actions for those toys believed to present a significant hazard. Corrective actions may include some or all of the following: correcting the violation in future production, ceasing distribution, recalling from retail stores, and recalling from consumers.

CPSC determines what is the appropriate corrective action based on the severity of the hazard presented by the subject toy and other factors.

4. What toys were recalled last year?

Approximately 47 toys and children's articles (some with several different style or model numbers) were recalled during FY 1983.

5. There used to be a 'banned toy list.' What happened to it?

The Commission discontinued the 'banned toy list' in 1975 for several reasons.

Toys which have been banned or recalled have been removed from retail shelves. Manufacturers have the responsibility of notifying retailers if a product is being recalled and should be taken off the shelves. When a toy is recalled, the Commission often issues a press release to alert both retailers and consumers. Since these are released during the year (as needed) a single list would require constant updating.

Often manufacturers redesign their products to remove a potential hazard but the toy appears to be unchanged. A redesigned product could be mistaken for the product which was recalled.

In addition, since the Commission does not have the resources to check all toys for safety the 'banned toy list' was misleading because it implied that any toy not on the list was safe.

6. What do toy manufacturers do to increase toy safety?

Each manufacturer is responsible for assuring that its products meet the Commission's requirements.

The Toy Manufacturers of America have developed a Voluntary Product Standard (PS 72-76) which establishes additional safety requirements and tests.

Many manufacturers have extensive testing programs, both to assure compliance with the federal and voluntary standards and to conduct actual 'playtesting' of toys by children.

Many toys are packaged with instructions for safe assembly and use as well as appropriate age labeling to help consumers in their selection of toys.

7. How do you choose a safe toy?

The CPSC and Toy Manufacturers of America

(TMA) recommend these guidelines for selecting a safe toy:

Select toys to suit the age, skills, abilities, and interest of the individual child. There are age recommendations on many toy packages; these may be used as guidelines for selecting safe as well as stimulating, educational toys.

If supervision is required, be prepared to make that commitment and to set 'ground rules' for play.

Instruction should be clear to you and, when appropriate, to the child.

Look for sturdy construction. When buying soft toys for young children, make sure you purchase a well-made item with eyes, nose, and any other small parts tightly secured.

For infants and toddlers, avoid toys with:

—small parts that children may put in their mouths.

—long strings or cords that may cause strangulation.

Avoid toys that shoot or propel objects that may injure eyes or get lodged in throats.

Arrows or darts used by children should have soft cork tips, rubber suction cups, or other protective tips. Check to be sure the tips are securely attached to their shafts. Examine these periodically to insure the protective tips remain secured.

Electric toys with heating elements are recommended only for children over eight years old, and only as long as there is adult supervision.

Consider the surroundings in which the toy will be used.

Is there sufficient toy storage and play space? Will young children be exposed to toys designed for older children? Remember, younger children in the household may not know how to play with some toys safely.

RSVP report

By Theresa James
Director

RSVP volunteers were honored with a Christmas party Friday, Dec. 9, at the American Legion Post 77 Hall in Waveland.

Conrad Mauffray was master of ceremonies.

Certificates and service pins were awarded to volunteers in appreciation for their service to the community.

There are 310 volunteers serving an average of 6,000 hours per month in non-profit agencies in Hancock County.

Entertainment was provided by Eddie Wilhelm and Shorty Reese.

The Bay High Chorus presented a number of Christmas songs to the enjoyment of the volunteers and Senior Citizens present. Santa distributed candy to one and all.

Refreshments were served by the staff of RSVP, The Multi-purpose Center and the members of the American Legion Auxiliary of Post 77. Door prizes were awarded.

Those who contributed to the success of the party were: American Legion Post 77, American Legion Auxiliary, Post 77, Edmond Fahey Funeral Home, Riemann Funeral Home, Security Savings, Carl Baldenhofer, Civil Defense and Hugh Morris.

On Wednesday, Dec. 14, RSVP Volunteers provided refreshments for a Christmas Party for Special Ed classes at Bay Junior High School.

Those participating and contributing were Gilbert Brechtel, Claire and Talmadge Conway, Beverly Coogan, Phil Lagasse, Margaret Gavaganie, Gertrude Sauer, Thelma Schneider, Claire Raphael, Mary Thompson and Lucille Witter.

ETV Brief

STAGE HIT—"Nicholas Nickleby"—the epic television adaptation of the Royal Shakespeare Company's (RSC) stage hit, will be presented on Mississippi ETV beginning Jan. 2. First seen on television last year, the four-part series will be seen on consecutive evenings beginning Monday at 8 p.m.

The saga, tracing the fortunes of the young Nickleby and his virtuous sister Kate, stars the same 39 RSC members who performed the play on the stage. These 39 actors and actresses cover some 150 different roles, quick-changing into more than 315 costumes, narrating the story, breaking into song from time to time and choreographing their bodies into instant scenery.

STATE KINDERGARTEN ADVISORY COMMITTEE—Paula Triche of Bay St. Louis, second from left, has been named to the Kindergarten Advisory Committee of the State Department of Education. The committee will help the department develop plans for implementing kindergarten programs in

NAVOCEANO CELEBRATES—The Naval Oceanographic Office (NAVOCEANO) reached the venerable age of 153 on Dec. 6. To commemorate the occasion Elbert Hilliard, director of the Mississippi Department of Archives and History, left, and James Stevens of the Mississippi Historical Society, presented

Captain John Sears, commanding officer of NAVOCEANO, a framed chart and picture of Matthew Fontaine Maury. Maury, who earned the title "Pathfinder of the Seas," commanded the forerunner of NAVOCEANO from 1842-1881, when he resigned from the U. S. Navy to join the confederacy.

Junior college president seeking 'day's pay for day's work'

A full-time academic day student attending one of Mississippi's 15 public junior colleges is worth $1,538 to the school.

But a full-time equivalent—several part-timers who together generate 24 student hours—brings in only about 400.

That's the way the state's current funding formula for junior colleges works. And it's something Gulf Coast Junior College hopes to change.

"We are going for broke in our efforts to convince state lawmakers that equitable funding is needed for part-time students," says Jim Reese, GCJC administrative assistant for institutional relations.

But Reese admits the issue is a thorny one because at least 10 of the junior colleges are expected to vigorously oppose two bills that will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

The bills call for funding based on student credit hours, "a proposal that would make a part-timer worth as much as someone taking 12 or more semester hours during the day," Reese explained.

Where has all the money gone? It just goes. Get some of it for yourself before it goes away. From now on, the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an easy way to see your money grow instead of go.

He said a protective clause is written into the bills for those colleges that would be hurt by changes in funding.

"Many schools have geared their programs to full-time day students. They will resist change. Gulf Coast, on the other hand, has 27 percent of all the part-time students in the state, but only 17 percent of the full-timers," Reese revealed.

Four other colleges also have many part-time students and Reese believes they will side with Gulf Coast in supporting the new funding formula. Reese said he and GCJC President Dr. J. J. Hayden Jr. have already laid the groundwork for the introduction of the bills in January.

"We recently visited key legislators throughout the state and explained to them the purpose of the bills. They understand, even if they don't all agree with what we are trying to accomplish."

Reese said the GCJC Board of Trustees at its December meeting unanimously pledged its active support to correct what it agreed is "gross inequities" in the distribution of state money to junior colleges.

In remarks to the board, Reese noted that the Junior College Association, comprised of all the junior college presidents, "improperly recommended to the Junior College Commission how to allocate state funds."

consideration that five of the 15 junior colleges have accounted for 99 percent of the increase in academic enrollment of full-time day students and more than 239 percent of the increase this year in technical students. The remaining 10 schools have actually lost students."

Gulf Coast this year has shown a 14 percent increase in enrollment of full-time academic day students, possibly the largest in the state.

"These students pay only about $45 for a three-semester-hour course, compared to the $105 a part-time student has to pay to attend the same class," Reese said.

"What is happening," he continued, "is that GCJC and some of the other colleges are being penalized for providing education to all kinds of people, not just to those who are able to attend full-time."

The funding proposals that would cure this ill "is similar to the one that enables senior colleges to receive their appropriations," Reese said. "It's based on credit hours taught. And that's exactly what we are asking for—a day's pay for a day's work."

He said he hopes the Legislature will take action on the bills in January.

Gift special offered on Southern Quarterly

"The Southern Quarterly," a journal of arts in the South, published at the University of Southern Mississippi since 1962, has announced a special Christmas gift subscription rate.

"Our definition of arts is broad to include coverage of as many of the parts as possible—literary, visual, performing, popular and folk," said editor Dr. Peggy French, assistant dean of the graduate school.

Southern Quarterly invites submissions from scholars throughout the country. Subscribers include libraries and individuals in all 50 states and 33 foreign countries.

"Special issues and features on topics as diverse as Elvis Presley, small town planning policies, art and culture in 19th century New Orleans, contemporary Southern women writers, the South in films and country music are published twice each year," according to Cheryl M. Saunders, managing editor.

Subscription rates are only $7 per year and $12 for two years. For additional information, write Cheryl Saunders, Southern Station Box 5078, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401 or call 266-4370.

Some common questions about uncommon produce

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Fall always brings on an array of different if not strange vegetables that gardeners first of all want identified. Secondly, they want to know if they are edible or poisonous and thirdly, how to prepare them.

The plant that shows up most frequently is a bean with a pod about a foot long and an inch or more across and about a half-inch thick. These pods are bought in green or dried.

Most of the gardeners with these beans started with a couple of seeds they were given early in the spring. The seeds are also sometimes sold as "Texas Butterbeans" because of their large size.

Actually, there are two closely related plants that produce these large pods: one is a bush and the other a vine. The bush type plant is known as Jack Bean while the vine is Sword Bean.

The green and mature pods are quite alike but Jack Bean has white seeds while the Sword Bean is pink red or brown.

The shelled beans are edible, or so I am told. If people can stand the smell and taste I couldn't. I was tempted to throw out the pod along with the Jack Bean. I couldn't. I know now to prepare them. The seed of the green mature bean at maturity is much too tough to eat but the very young beans can be used like snap beans.

The second most frequent vegetable oddity brought to my attention every fall is a tropical yam that looks like a cross between a brown egg and a lump of dirt.

The brown tubers grow along the vine in the axils of the leaves and each vine may produce a number of these egg sized or larger tubers. The vine itself is extremely attractive in that it grows rapidly and the large leaves are heart-shaped.

The plant's name is Dioscorea bulbifera and it is native to both Asia and Africa. The tubers of the Asian varieties are generally roundish in shape and have a relatively smooth surface.

The tubers of the African varieties are angled and thus very different in appearance. So far I've only seen the Asian types in Mississippi. The flesh of the aerial tubers of most varieties is yellow but turns brown shortly after being cut.

The question about eating the aerial tubers is difficult to answer because some varieties are poisonous while others are acceptable to eat. I haven't had the courage to try any of them, and my advice to gardeners is to enjoy the vine and not to eat the tubers.

The easiest way to propagate the vine is to start with a tuber in spring. Since the plant is tropical it likes a warm moist soil. Large aerial tubers can be cut into seed pieces like Irish potatoes and the cut surfaces allowed to dry before planting.

Cover the seed piece or tuber with an inch or two of soil. A soil of medium fertility is preferred. Some type of trellis is necessary for support. As I said earlier the vine is very attractive and apparently relatively free of pests. It is possible that in our more southern counties the root may survive our winters if some protection is provided.

The third most frequent vegetable oddity I get asked about in the fall is Chayote, also known as Mirliton or vegetable pear. This green, pear-shaped fruit is a relative of our squash and cucumber. It has a rough, corrugated surface and one large seed.

I've seen this vine growing in our three coastal counties but not any further north. I do suspect it is grown throughout the southern part of the state. In all but rare instances fruit are produced only in the fall of the year.

In the tropics this plant is grown mainly for its large starchy roots rather than the squash-like fruit. The vine is extremely vigorous and needs a strong support. A complete Tabloid, Extension Publication 1091, available at every county Extension office.

AWARD TO DU PONT—H. Gordon Smyth, senior vice president of employee relations, accepts the "Exemplary Voluntary Efforts Award" for Du Pont's affirmative action program. The award cited Du Pont's "innovative, good faith efforts" in its affirmative action initiatives, including the prevention of sexual harassment; support of minorities in engineering through sponsorship of National Action Council for Minorities in Engineering (NACME) programs at 46 company locations; recognition of the valuable contributions made by disabled employees in the workplace; and demonstration of a continuing corporate commitment to the principles of equal employment opportunity through the company's reaffirmation program. Only four other companies (Merck and Company, Control Data Corporation, Bess Kaiser Medical Center and Banco Popular) and a trade association (Edison Electric Institute) received the new federal award.

Union Pacific System to present railroad exhibit at World's Fair

The Union Pacific System today unveiled plans to participate next year in the World's Fair in New Orleans. In ceremonies aboard a special train arriving at the site of the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition, officials of the Fair and the Union Pacific System signed a contract for a railroad exhibit with theme "Rivers of Steel."

The Exposition, which will run from May 12 through Nov. 11, has as its general theme, "The World of Rivers: Fresh Water as a Source of Life."

Participating in the ceremony were Petr Spurney, president and chief executive officer of the Louisiana World Exposition, and William J. Farrell, Union Pacific vice president.

The Union Pacific System, which serves New Orleans through its Missouri Pacific Railroad, would construct an exhibition building which will house a display of railroad materials, a theater seating 150, and also keep its famous steam engine, #444, on display outside the building.

Approximately 600 people an hour will be able to see the film, "Rivers of Steel," which will feature many of the rivers the Union Pacific System runs along from the Pacific Northwest to the South.

Traditionally, railroad lines originally followed water routes.

Eventually, however, the railroads extended where the rivers did not, becoming "rivers of steel" to provide a transportation system linking the nation.

The Union Pacific System exhibit also will include the state flags of the 21 states the system serves.

Engine #444, designed by and built for Union Pacific, was the last steam locomotive acquired by the railroad in 1944. It is used today for numerous excursion trips.

The railroad's exhibit will be at the south end of the fairgrounds, near the main entrance. It will be near the U.S. Pavilion and the Fair's Aquacade, which will seat 3,500 and present eight water-oriented musical revues a day.

The World's Fair in New Orleans will include extraordinary displays from all over the world and from many of America's large corporations.

For more information on the Fair call 504-525-FAIR.

Brief

SKI VACATION
 The Division of Continuing Education at the University of Southern Mississippi will offer a ski vacation package March 2-9, or 9-16, 1984.

"Ski the Summit" will include round-trip airfare from New Orleans to Denver, bus transfers, seven nights' accommodations, six days' rental equipment, four days' lift tickets, an insurance package and all taxes and gratuities.

Participants will be housed at Beaver Run Condominiums near Breckenridge, Colorado. Free shuttle service will be provided to four different ski areas including cross-country skiing.

For further information, contact USM Continuing Education, Southern Station, Box 4196, Hattiesburg, MS 39401, or telephone (601) 266-4825 or 266-4196.

PRC students pick favorites

Jim Murphy and Judy Lung have been elected Mr. and Miss Pearl River College.

In a campus-wide election and after nominations, first and second primary runoffs Murphy, a sophomore from Shelbyville, Kentucky and Lung, a sophomore, who graduated from Forrest County Agricultural High School and is a native of Taiwan, came out on top.

Murphy defeated Roy Travis of Purvis in the runoff, while Lung edged Susan Regan of Poplarville.

Murphy, the son of James and Ann Murphy, is majoring in veterinary medicine while playing first base and short stop for the baseball Wildcats. He attended Shelby County High School in Kentucky.

Lung, the daughter of Captain and Mrs. H. C. Lung, is majoring in business administration and was recently selected a sophomore maid here during the 1983 PRC Homecoming.

Elected Pearl River College's Sophomore Favorites were Mimi Ladner, a graduate of Hancock North Central and a resident of the White Cypress community; Recinda Ladner, Poplarville; Susan Regan, Poplarville; Doug Norris, Oak Grove; Murphy Matheny, Oak Grove and Roy Travis of Purvis.

The Freshman Favorites are Keith Lott, Sumrall; Terri Patterson, Sumrall; Gidget Necaise, a graduate of Hancock North Central; Karen Ladner, Bay St. Louis; Greg Shaw, Carriere and Stan Purvis of Picayune.

Christmas Story Hour scheduled

The Hancock County Library System will present a Christmas story hour Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis Library.

Pre-school children, from the ages of three to six and their parents are invited to attend.

Christmas story hour will begin with the story of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," adapted by Barbara Shook Hazen and afterwards the song will be sung.

Another book based on the song, "We Wish You a Merry Christmas," will be read and the song sung.

A Christmas finger play will be taught between stories.

"The Night After Christmas" by James Stevenson will be the third book read.

Carol Mahler of Bay St. Louis will provide piano accompaniment for the carols sung and a surprise guest will present candy canes to each child attending.

Trying to save a buck these days can be pretty tough. Make it easier by joining the Payroll Savings Plan. It's automatic, it's painless, and it's sure to save you money.

MUW HONORS STUDENTS—Mississippi University for Women freshmen participating in the MUW Honors Program this year include, from left, Sue Schneider of Gulfport, Angela Yates of Morton, Donna Walker of Waynesboro, Beth Estes of Ripley, Maura Hamrick of Newton, Margaret Andrews of Florence, Brynna Parker of Vicksburg, Theresa Harwell of Birmingham, Ala., Robbie Rounds of Arab, Ala., Traci Bonney of

Pass Christian, Donna Black of Birmingham, Ala., Barbara Cobb of Oxford, Kibrey Fowler of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Van Hurt of Okolona. Miss Bonney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
 Michael Bonney, is a broadcast journalism and foreign languages major. She is a graduate of Pass Christian High School. She is a member of the staff of The Spectator, the campus newspaper.

Mississippi population approaches three million

Last June Mississippi's population topped the 2.7 million mark. Census estimates indicate the state will have more than 3 million people by 1990.

Mississippi's gains also parallel population increases in both the nation and the world. World population reached 4.7 billion in June, the largest 12-month gain ever reported.

The nation gained one percent more people in June with a reported population of 234.2 million people. India remains the fastest growing country with a 15.5 million increase in 1982, up 2.2 percent. The largest nation to lose population was West Germany, down 95,000 people.

Dr. Bob Chapin, coordinator of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Land Use
 Center, says U.S. Census Bureau information now reveals that half the people on the globe live in five countries
 - China, India, Soviet Union, the United States and Indonesia. He said one out of every four people live in clothe, and shelter 82 million more new people."

ETV Brief

COMEDY SPECIAL

Mark Russell must be glad that they wrote the First Amendment because he turns free speech into pure hijinks as he reflects upon the news of 1983 in "Mark Russell's 1983," the next "Mark Russell Comedy
 Special" on Mississippi
 ETV.

The half-hour comedy
 special can be seen at 9 p.m.,

Friday, Dec. 30 with a rebroadcast at 4:30 p.m.,
 Saturday, Dec. 31.

Bob Hope calls Mark
 Russell "the funniest man in Washington" - outside Congress. Russell reports that he has entered a new era of his career: since Watergate ended, he has been reduced to writing his own material.

State health off

Hancock girl recovers here

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A form of meningitis in Hancock County has claimed the life of an infant hospitalized a young girl and resulted in the preventative treatment of 50 people, a State Health Department official reports.
Amelia Kennedy, RN, nurse consultant for disease control for the department in Jackson, said Wednesday that a Bay St. Louis infant died and a 3 1/2-year-old girl is recuperating from

Christmas Year holidays schedules

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
All non-essential city, county, state and federal government offices and virtually all businesses in Hancock and west Harrison Counties will be closed the Mondays just after Christmas and New Year's days.
In addition, all area schools, colleges and universities are closed for the holidays and several schedule changes are reported.

COUNTY GOVERNMENTS
The offices at or related to the operations of the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis will close for Christmas at noon today and re-open at 8 a.m. Tuesday.
But Harrison County offices in Gulfport will close for Christmas at 5 p.m. today and open for business at 8 a.m. Tuesday.
Hancock and Harrison offices will both close for the New Year holiday at 5

Former Circuit clerk released from

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Proceedings to revoke the probation of former Hancock Circuit Clerk Henry Otis, 64, were dropped Tuesday when Otis submitted a check in the amount of some $4,045 to complete payments ordered by the court in November, 1982.
James D. Hester of Laurel, 10th Circuit Court district judge, also released Otis from probation.

Otis, circuit clerk from 1971 to 1982, was indicted for embezzlement following the January 1982 grand jury term and charged with converting some $49,000 to his own use between October 1979 and October 1981 "by virtue of his office."
The felony indictment stemmed from a special investigation by the State Department of Audit following a preliminary investigation by the sheriff's office and the district attorney's office.
The amount involved was later dropped.

Bay woman receives nine-year sentence for food stamp fraud

Following her plea of guilty, Hancock County Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin evoked the probation of Portia Golden of Bay St. Louis on food stamp fraud charges earlier this week.
Golden was sentenced to a total of nine years in custody of the Mississippi Department of Corrections.
The sentence was based on two
